Case Bargé is a conscious, hip-hop song writer/performer and the founder of Alls Lost Outside Our Fantasy (ALOOFF Recs), a creative collective and independent music label working towards social and environmental transformation through artistic expression. His motivation is to inspire and raise levels of consciousness through his creations by guiding those who are distracted by what is sold and exploited in today's mainstream music and media. Whether it's the exploitation of violence, drugs, and women or the destruction of politics, religion, and race; these are topics that drive him to better the music industry and humanity as a whole. Not only does he focus on those topics, the plant-based artist promotes a healthy lifestyle to better our health and to help the environment.

Powerful messages come from the once struggling homeless artist that knows about hunger all too well. Making ends meet any way possible, Bargé walked around the grimy streets of Cleveland day and night as he recited lines with every step. He managed to get through hardships after his close encounter to death, battling a hernia in the brain, getting robbed at gun point, and having to learn to walk again. With his journey and struggles, he was given the purpose to be that role model he never had and to empower generations.

Not only is he a recording artist and business owner, Case Bargé is known for his performances. Being able to engage with any crowd, he can go from a poetic a cappella to forming a mosh pit. Although he has produced a great amount of his own shows, he has also opened up for national artists such as: Twista, Scarface, Gun Play, DMC, Joyner Lucas, Casey Veggies, Dom Kennedy, Sylvan Lacue, Lil Debbie, Denzel Curry, Oddisee and King Chip.

Case Bargé took you through his struggle with his debut album at the end of 2015, 'INSANITY' but is in a better place. He has been shining light on mental health and self-love, especially for the youth. In 2018, he released a short film inspired by his song, "You&I" then hosted a Q&A and open discussion on mental health. This year, he was honored by The Museum of Contemporary Art in Cleveland at their 50th Anniversary, as a New Agent, a group of experimentalist pushing Cleveland forward.

Case released his second EP 'TRANSCEND' on April 22, 2019, which brings a whole new harmonious vibe and positive outlook on life. The concept of this project is going beyond the physical and surpassing ordinary limitations--spreading a positive message to love yourself and to be the light being that you are. He also created this project to motivate people to realize they can do whatever it is they want to do in life. It is now available to stream everywhere.
